I believe that education can change our life dramatically if we handle it on purpose. Just like the quotation said “Education is the key to success”. If we use our time to mold ourself the way we wanted to be then you/we are in the right path to take. This was my second time to experience the different happenings around the school of elementary where my field is. Once I entered this school it brings back the past because Pantal Elementary School is my Alma Matter that's why I'm happy when I entered this school once again. I've seen my different teachers before and those teachers that is new to my eyes.

Mr. Oliver Fernandez is a teacher where he can handle his students and gives praises to those students who can answer his questions and says to them to listen carefully to make it up next time that he will ask. I've seen innovation on him because of his instructional materials where it lacks of information then at the end of the lesson he handle it and deliver it properly. His self-confidence is also seen when it comes on teaching profession because he master the content of what the lesson talks about by that, I can say that Mr. Oliver Fernandez is an example of authoritative one. Also, linguistic philosophy is seen to the class. It talks about the multilingual language where teachers should know how to divert or change their medium of instruction for their students to understand the subject matter. As I was observing grade three I'm a bit shocked because I thought their medium of instruction is not a mother tongue but then it is. I'm astonish about on how teachers teach the subject through mother tongue and even more surprise when the students are able to properly read mathematical fractions. By that, I conclude that they were really a multilingual user. Despite of them being a star section, I see that not everyone is able to catch up the lesson right away and some are not that good in reading but their teacher is doing his best for his students. In that case, I salute Mr. Fernandez for his passion and love to his profession and also to his children.

When it comes on classroom setting it is very cozy because you will feel comfortable in the classroom. I've seen the attendance chart and it is updated as always. If you will roam your eyes you can be amazed because of the decorations where students can learn. To read numbers, letters, words, and even values. I am totally amazed with the bulletin board because all of the things that Mr. Fernandez should teach to his students for the whole year is already there. All the subject and quarters are already posted in the bulletin board. All the books, coupons and his instructional materials are on the right place. My first and second day stay in there I noticed that the teacher used traditional assessment where it is a paper-and-pencil test. He used printed instructional materials where he put and posted it in front and uses also the chalk and board. At the last day of this deployment he uses alternative assessment where he used technology for his lesson. He used video presentation and pausing it to ask questions and the students answered his questions correctly. When he noticed that his students are sleepy then he gives an exercise for them to be alive and he did not make a mistake because his students are now attentively listening to their topic. I am admiring this teacher also because he has good connections with other teachers. One of my former teacher step in to where is Mr. Fernandez my cooperating teacher to asked questions and Mr. Fernandez willingly approached her and help her. This former teacher proudly told me about the success of my very own cooperating teacher Mr. Fernandez from grade 3 star section. He is also approachable with the parents.

That's why as a future educator, I will learn about those things that I experienced here and I promise to myself that I will do my very best to achieved those goals. I want to discipline children, teach them with good manners, be their guide and also their second parent. I will be a good role model to everyone for the betterment of our society that will be passed unto the next generation.
