Guide Questions:

1. What are the relevant experiences you gained during the 3-day observation period in your respective cooperating schools?

Simply sitting back and watching what's going on around you can be very informative. The power of observation is amazing. I've seen and experienced firsthand how difficult it is to be an educator. To understand and teach your pupils, you must have a great deal of patience and strength. On my first day, I felt so nervous because a lot of things were running through my mind like I might end up with a peevish teacher. All the negative thoughts faded away when their principal here at Pantal Elementary School who is also our professor at University of Pangasinan; Mr. Raymund Villiare personally assigned each of us to our cooperating teacher, which impressed me because he personally brought each of us to the classroom that we needed to observe and told the teachers what we were supposed to do for three days.

Understanding their expressions and body language is important when you're teaching. That's the most important thing that I've learned in observation with my respective cooperating teacher. Teaching is a very uplifting profession; you need to know your pupils' strengths and weaknesses and have lots of patience with them. Also, being creative with all the subjects you teach is something that Teacher Maria Christina T. Nicomedes had, and those are traits that I want to apply when I'm an educator someday. The way she teaches her pupils is excellent. Teacher Maria speaks Tagalog, English, and Pangasinan language in their different subjects is a big salute. She is so fluent; the way she talks and stands in front of their discussion sessions is so good. In addition, I've learned from my cooperating teacher that creativity and alertness is a must. When their discussion is not active and no one is cooperating, Teacher Maria will suddenly say A, and the learner's will suddenly stand up and begin their ABC dance. In my few days observing them, I noticed that this is Teacher Maria's way of encouraging her students to be active, and it is amazing that her pupils are also participating. When they are energetic and ready to listen again, their teacher grabs the opportunity right away to continue their discussion. As an elementary teacher, you must be creative because, with so many subjects to teach, you must be innovative in order for your teaching to be successful. Although it is asserted at our university that we are being trained to be creative throughout making and using instructional materials in our demo teaching is very different when you see the works of a real teacher and how they are used in teaching. The way my cooperating teacher uses traditional teaching methods is good. Even if they don't have technology in their classroom she can do excellently her teaching. I felt happiness while watching and observing Teacher Maria, due to the fact that everything taught and said by our professors we have to imagine and do when we are in the teaching field, I saw everything in Teacher Maria. By that I realized that my cooperating teacher is a kind of quality teacher.

In conclusion, I discovered that having a talent for creativity is essential as a teacher. Being a reader is also advantageous when working in education. You must be able to read their minds and actions, you need to be a good mind reader and eye reader if they're active or not active in the activities that they need to do or when they're listening to you while discussing the lesson per subject. In order to give them a quality education you need to do this or have this in your teaching and my cooperating teacher has this. She can clearly see you and hear you if you're not participating in her class. I love the way Teacher Maria teaches. If the learners didn't understand the sentence, she would repeat it until the learner could clearly understand it. Just like in their English class, after observing for a few days, I noticed that the learners were no longer interested in their English subject because every time their teacher gave a lecture, I noticed that not all students were not totally listening. Maybe they don't understand some deep words, especially those who don't know how to read yet. When their teacher notices that they're not listening to her, Teacher Maria will solve it right-away. For example, Rhian can't understand the sentence because she can't understand English. Their teacher will translate it to Tagalog until she and the whole class can understand it. Becoming capable of engaging with my cooperating teacher is a huge help to me. I've learned to observe well and how to be a good-quality educator someday; her calmness, creativity, and dedication while teaching are an inspiration to me that I need to apply someday. Being an educator is a big responsibility. With my own two eyes, I saw and witnessed that you require a great deal of patience. Subsequently, many of the experiences I gained while here are the most important to me. I've discovered that observation is a wonderful teacher. If you can observe well, you will continue to learn, grow, and connect with others. I admire all teachers, especially my cooperating teacher, for overcoming obstacles to keep the flame of knowledge burning for their students. I hope to teach in the future and put everything I've learned here at Pantal Elementary School.

2. Comment on your observations about the assessment tools, classroom management, teachers' actuations/behavior/demeanor; relationship with fellow teachers, higher authorities, other school personnel; relationship with the students, their methodologies, strategies, relationship with the students' parents (if applicable);

Apropos the stipulations under the following legal documents:

A.) Code of Ethics for Professional Teachers (BPT Resolution No. 435 s. 1998)

B.) Magna Carta for Public School Teachers (RA 4670)

C.) Philippine Professional Standards for Teachers (DepEd Order 42 s. 2017)

All the things I learned at our university about the strategies of how you can properly teach and what you should do so that your students will learn, I saw with my cooperating teacher. She is very good at teaching and a multi-tasker, because when it comes to their art class, Teacher Maria will task them to color something that is related to the topic, and when they are called, they will go to the front one by one to read English sentences. Because Teacher Maria said, with that method, the children will learn to read properly, and she wants them to be able to read well before they leave grade two.

My three days at Pantan Elementary School were fun, and I learned a lot. Being an observer in that school is the best experience for me. Mrs. Maria Christina is the best cooperating teacher due to the fact that when there's still a chance we chit-chat about some random things, she always gives me advice on how to be a good teacher someday. Also, she mentioned that her husband is a good teacher at another school, which made me think that they cannot violate Code of Ethics No. 435 s. That indicates: Every teacher shall merit reasonable social recognition, for which purpose he shall behave with honor and dignity at all times and refrain from such activities as gambling, smoking, drunkenness, and other excesses, much less illicit relations. When you and your husband are both teachers, you cannot do anything that can cause you trouble. If you are a professional educator, you are the role model, and my cooperating teacher is my role model. Her attitude, posture, and speaking skills are what I wanted to apply to me in the near future. Also, I observed that every teacher with whom I met and spoke always acted with dignity and good manners. In addition, Section 12. Academic Freedom. Teachers shall enjoy academic freedom in the discharge of their professional duties, particularly with regard to teaching and classroom methods. This is indicated by Republic Act No. 4670. THE MAGNA CARTA FOR PUBLIC SCHOOL TEACHERS. My cooperating teacher had academic freedom when she was teaching, and what are her classroom methods that she's using for my 3-day observation that I've seen. I love the way she teaches because she doesn't have any hesitations about what she wants to use as a strategy that can give her students a quality knowledge. Lastly, The Philippine Professional Standards for Teachers (DepEd Order 42 s. 2017) that Mrs. Maria Christina T. Nicomedes have. Mrs. Maria Christina is a multi-language teacher. The way she spoke English, Filipino, and mother tongue in teaching is fantastic. When one of her students can't understand some words, she immediately translates them and explains to them what they mean, especially in their English class. She always wants to increase their literacy skills in their remedial class. When their teacher starts writing in the board an English sentence they start raising their hands because they want to be first to read. Also the one I love when my cooperating teacher promotes literacy skills is when the student's have their group activity work; their teacher gave them a coupon that contains a short story, and their task is to read it and answer the guided questions. It was wonderful to see the students working together to complete and complete their task on time. In addition, I like the way my cooperating teacher always makes sure that all of her students love each other; like there's no bullying or discrimination towards each other and I see that in my observation days. The way she always sets the tone of their classrooms, builds a warm environment, mentors and nurtures her students is a kind thing that I want to possess someday.

In my 3-days observation in Pantal Elementary School, many realizations sink in my mind, that teaching is a hard profession; you are not only a teacher that to teach you will also be their mother that helps them to grow on their own by guiding them. Every teacher is an intellectual leader in the community, especially my cooperating teacher and their principal. All the teachers and non-teaching staff are good with us, even the parents are kind. They've addressed me as a teacher and greet me when they see me. As a student observer, it's heartwarming to think that the students in the school we are deployed to are calling me teacher. Their environment is student centered and their relationship with each other is good because I've seen many times that they speak with each other even with their principal. On our last observation day they had an afternoon meeting. That's why my cooperating teacher left earlier. And as an observer I cleaned the classroom for the good afternoon environment class for the learners. This is the most important and happiest day in my life and I will treasure these beautiful memories with them. I hope that in my next deployment, my professor will still be assigned to this school.
