During my Observations Period at East Central Integrated School, I've encountered a lot of things that inspire me as an Education student. I learned a lot about classroom management and how to assess the learning of the students, and I see that this opportunity will help bring about the changes we observed.

On my First day, February 27, 2023 (Monday), a Flag Ceremony was held. I was assigned to the grade 6 students that were being cared for by teacher Erwin as I Entered their classroom, I could feel the excitement of how I saw the students, and I also observed student discipline from the teacher by counting 1, 2, and 3. Before He gave an activity, He discussed what we did first because it made them engage and actively participate. and almost get the highest score because the teacher is effective at teaching and also because I observed the Classroom Management being Organized and all the students being in need, respectively, to all teachers and visitors, that I admire the teacher's ability to handle the students.

My Second day of Observation February 28, 2023 During this day, I was indeed overwhelmed by things that happened that I had done during my first day. In the morning before we started the class, I prayed for this day, and I assisted the teacher by giving an activity for the sixth grade students. After that, I checked the papers and also recorded his scores. I was impressed with the students' performance because they were familiar and memorable, and with his discussion with the teacher before the activity. After that, I observed another teacher because he is busy with his students and the classroom management is not organized, not like my classroom that I observed that almost needed the students there, so we need to organize the classroom management for the students' comfort so they can study and learn from their teachers.

My last day will be March 1, 2023. I'm back with Teacher Erwin's class of sixth-grade students. Teacher Erwin used visual aids just like on my first day. Visual aids are very effective in letting the students learn, but as I told my cooperating teacher, not all the time is used for visual aids and technology to be used in teaching. We need traditional teaching, and that is true. I've noticed how important setting rules is since day one, when teacher Erwin used different strategies to handle the behavior and discipline of his students. I've learned how students learn because the classroom has four stand fans and an open window that keep it ventilated, and I could sense his passion for teaching and his love of his students. I unfortunately have moments when I leave the classroom because my students are crying and hugging me, and I said that they should always listen to their teachers and keep studying well, and I also thanked my cooperating teacher for teaching me as many strategies on how to handle the students and ways of teaching.
