

PHINMA-University of Pangasinan
College of Education & Liberal Arts
Education Department

FIELD STUDY 6 Deployment
Narrative Report

Name: Caballero, Jayson C.

Year & Section: 3rd year / UP-FC1-BEED3-01

School Assigned: Juan P. Guadiz Elementary School

Date of Deployment: February 27 to March 1, 2023

Cooperating Teacher: Ms. Lalaine P. Bonifacio

Grades and Sections Observed: Grade 4 – Matiyaga

Everyone in this world deserves to be educate. No one will be left behind. Making children's dream come true is the fruit of achievement, not only for their family but also for themselves. However, we live in a society that full of judgement and insecurities, they compare a fast learner and a slow learner student without knowing the reason why they ended up in that situation.

My cooperating teacher once said, "teaching is not a job, it is a vocation". A simple quote but it has a broader meaning. I've learned that you should know who and what is your students' personalities. During observation I've met different teacher's on how they teach their lessons, and on how they execute the activities. But the first thing that I love in Juan P. Guadiz Elementary School is the "Explicit Teaching" they teach the discipline first before they start the lesson. They examine the individual understanding of the students, and they will be directing student attention toward specific learning in a highly structured environment. In teaching elementary is a big responsibility because, that is where the students learn first. It made an impact for me because I saw that elementary teachers are dedicated on their work even if their students are roaming around the classroom. Also the Classroom management of my Cooperating Teacher, I must say that I'm amaze because, she has a five (5) students who are special or let's say the students who has the Attention-Deficit / Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), in my own observation, its very hard to handle those students and it feels like I want to give up anytime, but my cooperating teacher is brave and she has a heart to teach and not to give up to those students easily, she said to me that "at first I want to give up and give them to my co-teachers but I realize that I think this is the challenge that the lord given to me", that's why I'm thankful because I learned a lot in my cooperating teacher.

They have a specific focus in the lesson structure and particularly the articulation of lesson objectives. When they started to teach it was very clear that by giving motivation activities it was one of the best strategies to give an heads up to the students. The teachers would have a short review before the lesson, where they talk about what will going to happen in the lesson, and how the lesson is going to flow. The anticipatory set, which was something that I was really interested in. The use of multimedia engaged the students straight away. The images that they used were fabulous. They were targeted right at the student's level. And certainly, it introduced the lesson on tone and mood well.