My most memorable and challenging experience is how you discipline the students in the classroom and how you treat them in a way that you will not hurt them verbally and physically because if it is compared to what I observed before this is more difficult and challenging. My cooperating teacher also said that they are the worst because it looks like you are handling a grade one student every time, she also said that they will keep only keep quiet when you say foul words or words that can hurt them personally and physically aside from that one thing I notice is that two of the teachers twist and pinch the hairs of the students who are not participating and one time during their discussion one of the teacher uses foul word because the learners doesn't answer the question right, disciplining the child in those approach will not be effective because I believe that we can discipline the child without doing those things, almost all of the teachers uses technology when teaching and explaining the terminologies in a relevant way because one of the subject teachers told me that they aren't meeting the competency because of their low comprehension and some of them doesn't know how to read that's why teacher vanessa used to print instructional materials to each students that can help them to read, pronounce and comprehend and even though they are using technologies as one of teaching strategy their approach is still traditional or teacher centered maybe that's why students are not participating during recitation, review even in discussion but thankfully teachers are approachable, have a harmonious relationship with their colleagues, and easy to deal with that makes me feel like I'm belong.
