Encouraging a child means that one or more of the following critical life messages are coming through, either by word or by action I believe in you, I trust you, I know you can handle this, You are listened to, You are cared for, You are very important to me.

On the first day of our observation when we entered the school we felt their welcome as observers, we were entertained by the teachers and we also participated in their flag ceremony based on what I observed in their flag ceremony, very kind the children are very respectful even though they are so little they know how to respect especially we are observers and when the principal came I saw that he was very kind because he immediately greeted us with a smile that you can see that he really cares for us and takes care of us he led us properly to the room where we were to observe and he introduced us to each teacher we were to observe.

I went to the second grade as soon as i entered the room, was immediately welcomed by the students while I saw their smiles i was comforted and happy as if I could say that one day I will also be a teacher. Based on my observation of their teacher before their class starts, the discipline in the class remains especially in the behavior of the children before teaching the teacher first checks to see if his students are okay and he conducts a short activity to wake up and want to get their attention so they listen more and learn a lot and from what I saw it seems to be effective because his students participate and they like it one of the things I liked is that before teaching the teacher he always reminds them of their past lessons to test if they can follow and understand what they are studying. I learned was seeing how a teacher handles his students, one of those who liked that the students participated in their class, they showed that they want to learn and have different knowledge. I also saw how good their teacher was at teaching because his students were very happy to listen and also the student is so sweet to their teacher. And now all my experience in observations have given me the knowledge and courage to see one day myself that I will also teach and I know this time I'm very grateful because after 2 years we experience to observe. Based on my experience, one of the things I have seen is their performance because there are students who cannot follow and understand what they are studying, but there are also students who can follow what they are studying and there are children even in grade 5 who are they also have difficulty writing correct spelling and difficulty reading and there are students who don't learn quickly but as a second teacher we need to give our students time to teach them correctly and give them a short activity that they can think more and enter their minds to study well.

What I liked most about my cooperating teacher is that he has a lot of patience and no matter how messy his students are he doesn't hurt them and another thing is that he continues to teach because of his patience I saw in him the diligence of teaching because I have to admit to myself that when I saw that their behavior was not so good if I was their teacher I would have just given up on them, but I saw in their teacher how good he was because no matter how hard he spoke and disobeyed his students he also teaches them well. One of his methods of reading is that before his students go home he makes them read because most of them do not know how to read because of the two-year pandemic so he implements a method so that they can read good and what he does is that the children learn more so I learned so much from him that he always says that on the day that will be the one to teach I will always remember to always be patient and have a relationship with my Students, I will always remember that teaching must also be accompanied by love.
