Being a teacher is not only a teacher, once you stepped inside the school a lot of responsibilities is being given to you. A wise man once told me that if you want to get rich don't be a teacher, but if you want to help the next generation to reach their goals and their full be potential be one.

What I did observe inside my 3-day observation at the Caranglaan Elementary School is that how must a professional teacher act inside and outside the school. As a professional teacher you need to be calm at all times even your students are very noisy, messy, and sometimes mean. Also, teaching inside the four corners of a classroom doesn't end the responsibilities of a teacher, because based on what I observed at Grade 2- Maka-Diyos is that you need to be a parent, brother, or a sister to each and every student that you have. You need to calm them down when someone is fighting, feed them at lunch because some of them don't have enough money to buy foods, or their parents didn't give them any food for their lunch because of poverty. When it comes to the relationship of Ma'am Kynfa to her students, they love so much their teacher they tell their teacher how was their day after the school, they hug their teacher if they want to its like ma'am Kynfa is their true mother. When it comes to the relationship of ma'am Tagapan to the parents of the learners I can really said that communication between them is very open, like there is one instance that a parent comes to the school to tell ma'am Kynfa that her daughter is being bullied by her classmate, ma'am Kynfa immediately called the parents of the other child to talked things over I really did see the fairness, the openness of both party to solve the problem. They even do a project wherein they will buy a television to improve the teaching-learning process inside the classroom. Ma'am Kynfa also collaborates with her colleagues when it comes to paper works, and improving the teaching style of one another, one scenario that I witnessed is that her co-teacher ask how to handle her former students and she immediately tells that they listen carefully if the teacher is telling them stories that is connected to their lesson, and even to this day ma'am Kynfa Tagapan is using storytelling and it's very evident that her grade 2 students is listening very carefully when she is reading a story. Ma'am kynfa also uses Alternative assessment like aksing her students to dance and sing, but she often uses traditional assessment like pen and paper test every after the lesson, and she always asks her students to sing a song that in related to their subject before the start of a lesson.

FIELD STUDY 6 Deployment Narrative Report

So, to help our students to reach their goals we need to give them every ounce of knowledge, love, and care they need from a teacher. Because I believe that the greatest achievement that a teacher can have is seeing his or her students succeed in their own lives.
